Give Me Tokyo U or Give Me Death

For the moment, the chaos surrounding the Hinata crew has begun to settle down. And Keitaro and Naru have started to show the world that they are indeed a couple, though their relationship still has quite a bit of improving to do before it can move to the next level. But when Motoko realizes she harbors long-buried feelings for Keitaro, she attempts to break up the semi-happy couple.

As a result, Motoko finds herself in the same position Keitaro was once in—and her Tokyo U mock exams reflect it. It's at this pivotal time that her demented sister, Tsuruko, decides to make a surprise visit to Hinata House to congratulate Motoko on making it into Tokyo U! Forced to lie to her sister once again, the situation for Motoko snowballs out of control and the ramifications may leave her forever changed.

However, the problems that Motoko faces pale in comparison to the mammoth decision Keitaro must make when he's taken to the Kingdom of Malm in this penultimate volume of Love Hina. The moment everyone has been waiting for arrives at last—Keitaro finally chooses the girl he wants to be with!

The Story Thus Far...

Some promises are meant to be kept. For Keitaro Urashima, a promise he made with a little girl during his childhood has been the driving force for him to make it into Tokyo University. After studying and failing his exam three times, he finally managed to do the impossible and fulfill his promise...or did he? Having broken his leg prior to the university's opening ceremony, Keitaro made a shocking bedside confession of his love for Naru, and soon got it into his thick skull that he wanted to leave for half a year so he could study abroad! But perhaps we are getting ahead of ourselves.

This chapter in Keitaro Urashima's life began over two years ago when he inherited from his globe-trotting grandmother the Hinata House, an all-girls dormitory whose clientele was none too pleased that their live-in landlord is a man...or as close to a man as poor Keitaro can be. The lanky loser incessantly (and accidentally) crashes their sessions in the hot springs, walks in on them changing, and pokes his nose pretty much everywhere that it can get broken, if not by the hot-headed Naru—possibly the mystery girl from fifteen years ago—then by one of the other Hinata inmates—Kitsune, an alcoholic with a diesel libido and knack for gambling; Motoko, a swordsman who struggles with her feminine identity; Shinobu, a pre-teen princess with a colossal crush on Keitaro; Su, a foreign girl with a big appetite and some mean hacker skills; Sarah, an orphaned ward resentful of being left by her globe-trotting archeologist guardian, Seta; Mutsumi, an accident-prone lily also studying for her exams; Haruka, Keitaro's aunt and de facto matriarch of Hinata House; and now Kanako, Keitaro's little sister with a knack for impersonations and a bizarre love for her brother.

Just as the Hinata crew was beginning to get on with their lives without Keitaro around, Kanako Urashima arrived on the scene and instituted a number of changes. The biggest of these was the refurbishing of Hinata House into a full-service bed and breakfast. As tensions mount, the girls are forced to take sides against their tyrannical new landlord and her unlikely cohort, Naru. Just as things are about to get ugly, Keitaro makes his grand entrance and breaks up a coup d'état staged by the dorm residents to overthrow Kanako.

As Keitaro slowly reacclimates himself to his former life, his desire to rekindle his relationship with Naru grows until late one night he asks her to join him at the mysterious annex behind Hinata House, a place where lovers can be forever bound together. Unfortunately for him, Kanako shows up and the plan goes haywire. Naru's ego takes a nosedive and she bolts on a journey of self-discovery that not only makes her a wanted terrorist, but also helps her to finally come to terms with her "true" feelings for Keitaro.

PRETTY...

SHE'S TAKING BETTER

IT?

あなた

BECAUSE
THIS IS DEFINITELY
NOT A PART
OF IT!!

OH,
YOU'RE

Keitara Final Battle Design

A postcard, sent to us by Takashi Miyamura from the Fukuoka Prefecture, inspired the design for the Mecha-Tamago 5. The unit traces all of Su's actions within the cockpit, and relays them into direct actions.

Here is the original design for the ceremonial altar found within the Todal Ruins (Hinata. I 14). At first I envisioned it as a sunken pyramid with the floor and glyphs visible through the water. However, the end result turned out quite different.

The Promise Girl

Every relationship has its ups and downs, but for Keitaro and Naru, their roller coaster romance could shatter a long-standing friendship. Having just seen their mentors, Haruka and Seta, get married, the aspiring young couple is on a mad dash to make it back to Hinata House before Grandma Hinata arrives. But when Keitaro gets his days mixed up, he ends up missing her visit completely!

Royally screwed, Naru and Keitaro head to Tokyo University and finally seal their promise once and for all...or do they? A surprise phone call brings Keitaro in contact with his grandmother for the first time in years. And when Grandma Hinata lets on that she knows about Keitaro's childhood promise, Naru cuts the phone call short.

As Naru and Keitaro's seemingly star-crossed romance begins to slowly erode, the other residents of Hinata House leave in a mass exodus. Will Hinata House ever be the same? Will Naru and Keitaro ever find happiness? And who is the promise girl? The answers are finally revealed in this last sidesplitting volume of Love Hina!

Love Hina

Give Me Tokyo U or Give Me Death

For the moment, the chaos surrounding the Hinata crew has begun to settle down. And Keitaro and Naru have started to show the world that they are indeed a couple, though their relationship still has quite a bit of improving to do before it can move to the next level. But when Motoko realizes she harbors long-buried feelings for Keitaro, she attempts to break up the semi-happy couple.

As a result, Motoko finds herself in the same position Keitaro was once in—and her Tokyo U mock exams reflect it. It's at this pivotal time that her demented sister, Tsuruko, decides to make a surprise visit to Hinata House to congratulate Motoko on making it into Tokyo U! Forced to lie to her sister once again, the situation for Motoko snowballs out of control and the ramifications may leave her forever changed.

However, the problems that Motoko faces pale in comparison to the mammoth decision Keitaro must make when he's taken to the Kingdom of Molmol in this penultimate volume of Love Hina. The moment everyone has been waiting for arrives at last—Keitaro finally chooses the girl he wants to be with!
